Property-based Business Improvement Districts (PBIDs) have proven to successfully revitalize Downtowns in cities across the country. PBIDs provide two fundamental benefits to the downtowns they serve.

The more tangible of these is the services and improvements the districts are able to provide. The less tangible, but equally important, benefit of a PBID is the effect of uniting property owners in a common purpose.

Property owners make all the decisions about the PBID: boundaries, services, budget, governance and assessments. An initial PBID can only be formed for five years, although it can be renewed by the property owners.

The May property owner meetings are your chance to be involved in those decisions. It is essential that your voice be heard. Please attend.
